For Cole Brown, the 24-year-old author of “ Greyboy ” — a debut essay collection that reflects his futile quest to pin down questions that won ’ t sit still — growing up as the rare Black child in a

Bing: Greyboy Finding Blackness In A

Greyboy is a series of essays by a self-proclaimed token black man about finding his place in the world. The writing was beautifully eloquent, the anecdotes heartbreaking. I appreciated a "token person's" view of tokenism and the discussion it led the author to have about being the only in a room almost your whole life thus far.
